Students in grades 6-12, science/math teachers, and counselors are invited to attend this exciting FREE conference that is designed to show students that careers in science, technology, engineering and mathematics are exciting, attainable & rewarding!

Women in Science is a free, one-day conference that allows students to engage in hands-on science activities; learn first-hand about science and technology career opportunities from Oklahoma's top female scientists and engineers; and receive college preparation information from Oklahoma college, university and outreach representatives.

- Schools may register to bring up to 12 students & 2 adults (per school).
- Teachers must complete online registration to secure space for themselves and their students. Students' information will be provided to conference organizers one month prior to the event.
- There is no cost to attend; a boxed lunch and beverages will be provided free of charge to participants.
- Registration deadline: January 15, 2014, OR WHEN FULL. Space is limited, register today!
